

CALLED TO PROTECT™ for YOUNG CHILDREN

Abuse prevention training for grades K-5

Teaching children self-protection skills is essential to any abuse prevention program. However, current research demonstrates that programs about dangerous strangers and good/bad touch are ineffective and outdated. Called to Protect™ for Young Children is different. Based in the most recent knowledge of child development and learning theory, Called to Protect™ for Young Children teaches children in grades K-5 boundary skills they can understand and use.

Each grade level learns three key lessons and participates in related hands-on activities:

Kindergarten

Focus: Rules about the Body

Grade 1

Focus: Feelings (includes bullying)

Grade 2

Focus: Intuition

Grade 3

Focus: Secrets

Grade 4

Focus: Friendships (includes peer abuse)

Grade 5

Focus: Privacy (includes Internet safety)

Called to Protect™ for Young Children incorporates age-appropriate information in lesson plans that are easy for teachers, child care workers and parents to present.

Called to Protect™ for Young Children includes supplemental information for parents such as age-specific safety tips and recommendations for the best books to read with children.
